

Agave

Monsoon rain falls quickly the thirsty desert sand drinking it even quicker
The rain streaming down the leaves of an agave
Lightning crashes on the dry desert sand
The wind blows hard and a bird is caught in a summer storm

The wind slows
Rain is falling slowly now
Clouds part a ray of sun bursting through
The agave stretches toward the warm summer sun

Sun shines across the shimmering desert sand
Drying the wet agave
A bird perches on a cactus
All is dry and warm

Then just as soon the desert is dry and hot
The sand desperate for rain
The bird is seeking shade
The agave is shaded by cacti
